STAT

[Redacted]:
This is in reply to your letter, dated 24 February 1982 requesting declassification authority for CIA-produced material containing DoD information.

The Organization of the Joint Chiefs of Staff and the Departments of the Army, Navy and Air Force have reviewed your request and in this instance, there is no objection to CIA taking final declassification action on Korean War daily situation reports, examples of which were attached to your letter of 24 February.

If you desire any further assistance, please do not hesitate to contact us.

Sincerely,

Gentlemen:

We are attaching six examples of daily situation memos and bulletins produced by one of our offices during the Korean War. Since much of the information contained in this series of reports was furnished by the military services, we cannot declassify them without your concurrence. Most of this information, however, appears to be very perishable. Rather than burden you with the review of several hundred such items, we are asking that, based on the attached examples, you give us the authority to take final action without coordination.

There are incidentally, a few reports in this record group on which our review officers extended the classification to protect a source, but the great majority are very similar to the attached examples.

Sincerely,

Chief, Intelligence Branch
Classification Review Division
